

La Trobe University Archaeology Student Conference

Friday 23 May 2014
10am Start. Room HS 136

To celebrate National Archaeology Week, La Trobe University archaeology students will be presenting a day-long conference, showcasing the varied research, interests and experiences of current students, from undergraduates through to PhD.

We would like to invite all archaeology students, as well as staff and students among the broader University community interested in archaeology to come along to this FREE event.

Topics will range from general themes, such as 'An Introduction to Archaeology', and 'Volunteering in Archaeology', to those highlighting current research within the department, including 'Bone Tool Use in 2 million year-old South African Cave Sites' and 'Assessing Seasonality through Stable Isotope Analysis'.

Free lunch will be provided by the La Trobe University Archaeological Society, who will also be taking memberships on the day. Annual membership rates are $5 for La Trobe University Student Union members and $10 for any other individual. Membership lasts for one year (from the date of payment). The Society presents an excellent way for students of all levels of study to connect with one another.

RSVP is essential to ensure that enough room is available. For further information and to reserve a spot, please email either Georgia Roberts (gl4roberts@students.latrobe.edu.au) or Rhiannon Stammers (rcstammers@students.latrobe.edu.au).

RSVP by Wednesday 21st May.
